Choose the most appropriate answer. Mark only one. Marks 1 (1*1)

1. The real source of happiness is:
   □ Objects of the world
   □ One’s near and dear
   □ Indicated by the love one has for oneself
   □ The love one has for the personal deity (iṣṭa-devatā)

State True or False (T/F) Marks 1 (1*1)

1. Death is identification with the realm of change at the physical and mental realms of one’s personality.

Choose the correct statements. Check all that apply. Marks 2 (1*2)

1. Which of the following axioms are true in context to the psychology of happiness with respect to objects?
   □ There is intrinsic happiness in the world of objects.
   □ There is no intrinsic happiness in the world of objects.
   □ For happiness to be experienced, one must have physical contact with the object.
   □ All happiness rests in the Self alone and is thus intrinsic to the Self.

Match the following. Marks 3 (1*3)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>A</th>
<th>B</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>a) Reality appearing in a particular form</td>
<td>(1) Accomplished with knowledge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>b) Reality losing its particular form</td>
<td>(2) The birth of the individual</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>c) Dissolution of individuality</td>
<td>(3) The death of the individual</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>